

Waltham Forest Oral History Workshop

Conditions of use

WFOHW is a wholly voluntary organisation with no core funding. We have gathered oral material since 1982 and have a responsibility to preserve it in accordance with good practice, policies as determined from time to time, the spirit in which it was collected, and consent for its use (explicit and implicit).

In general:

- archive material may be listened to, retained and copied within reasonable limits by the interviewee and by their immediate family for personal, non-commercial use only, without further permission being granted
- archive material may be used for non-commercial purposes only with our permission, and subject to the conditions below
- permission for any commercial use must be specifically agreed.

Some material may have no consent, some may have uncertain or outdated consent, while more recent material may have the current comprehensive consent. As a result, any request for use may require time for consent to be clarified or negotiated and/or consent may be refused.

Non-commercial use

Any person wishing to consult or use material from the WFOHW archive is bound by and agrees to the following conditions:

1. The copyright of all material in the WFOHW archive is held by WFOHW. Specific materials may have additional constraints on their access and use.
2. No material may be quoted, used, distributed, stored in a retrieval system, reproduced or made available to any other person or organisation, or published in any form, or by any means, electronic, mechanical, photocopying, recording or otherwise without WFOHW's written consent. The interviews and materials must be credited as obtained through the archives of Waltham Forest Oral History Workshop. Where appropriate a copy of any book, article, video, tape, CDRom, script or other "End Product" should be deposited with WFOHW free of charge.
3. For specific uses WFOHW may seek to gain further consent from the contributor, or their family. We will need to know details of how the contribution will be used, including project aims and objectives, context and treatment.
4. A reasonable charge may be made for supplying copies of archive material, eg CD or DVD discs, printed transcripts or summaries and for research undertaken by WFOHW for any request.
5. All other persons working on the same project, or in the same organisation, as the person who agrees to these conditions below are also bound by these conditions. It is the responsibility of the person signing below to ensure that all other persons are aware of this, whether they be paid or unpaid workers, volunteers, contractors, freelance personnel or involved in any other capacity, in any place.

6. Any material given, lent or otherwise supplied to the person below must be kept in a safe place and returned to WFOHW (or destroyed if appropriate after checking with WFOHW); no unauthorised copies may be retained for any purpose with the exception of copies specifically required for legal purposes, and it is the responsibility of the person signing below to ensure that all persons involved in their project adhere to this condition whether they be paid or unpaid workers, volunteers, contractors, freelance personnel or involved in any other capacity, in any place
7. If WFOHW materials are digitised, summarised, typed up, or extracts produced, the person signing below will provide these files to WFOHW free of charge as a contribution to the ongoing improvements and accessibility of the archives.

Commercial use

Researchers for possible commercial use are bound by sections 1-7 above during their research phase.

If material is identified for possible commercial use, WFOHW must be given all relevant details about:

- items to be used
- publication, programme or media in which it will be used
- publishing organisation
- its treatment and context
- audience
- territory
- publication date and duration of availability

We will consider all these details before making a decision.
